

'Seven Dials & the Sundial Pillar'

A Limited Edition lithograph (150 No.) each numbered and signed by the artist, David Gentleman, drawn for The Seven Dials Trust gratis.
21" x 24" (54 x 61cm)

David Gentleman's famous series of limited lithographs 'Prospects of Covent Garden' were published by the Seven Dials Press in 1971 and are now collectors' items.

David kindly drew an addition to the series and the famous Westerham Press also donated their lithography of his drawing. This beautiful monochrome image of the Dials and the Sundial Pillar is available from the charity at £135 + VAT @ 20% = £162 if collected + £10 posted special delivery = £172 (delivered in a 24" x 4" tube). It should be framed against acid free paper and the edges should not be cut. We can arrange framing if you wish.

David Gentleman is one of England's leading artists and lithographers and the Trust is delighted to be able to offer this unusual and attractive drawing to our supporters. Please note that the reproduction above does not do full justice to the originals, which are a charcoal colour, not black.

If you would like to purchase a lithograph, please complete the form and return it to the Trust either with your cheque or notification of payment by BACS. The Trust has various sponsorship schemes which can be seen at the end of our current Newsletter. They can be viewed at www.sevendials.com Thank you so much for your support.
